Mediation Confidentiality: Are there two interpretations of Alfieri v. Solomon?

Article
June 2017
GSB Newsroom

Oregon's mediation statutes create a zone of confidentiality to encourage negotiated settlements through confidential and frank discussions among litigants, lawyers, and mediators. Communications that qualify as "mediation communications" under the statutory definition cannot be disclosed and are inadmissible in any adjudicatory proceeding, unless the parties consent to the disclosure in writing.

Download the full article.

Contact

Daniel L. Keppler

Related Services

Alternative Dispute Resolution

Litigation

White-Collar Defense & Investigations